CRITTENDEN CHAPTER

Royal Arch Masons Give Banquet Wednesday Evening, Jan. 1st.

Wednesday evening, Jan. 1st, Crittenden Chapter, No. 70, Royal Arch Masons gave a banquet in the Stegar building on Main street in Marion. This event followed close upon a similar affair given in the same place the night before by the Woodmen of the World.

The feast of good things offered by the Masons was very elaborate. The menu, headed out with "There's a gude time coming" held up its reputation to the end. Opening the interesting event with oysters the pace was held until the final roundin' of pumpkin pie and ice cream. Plates were provided for eighty-two people, but all those invited could not attend.

The members of Crittenden Chapter are not all residents of Marion and many of them found it impossible to attend. Crittenden Chapter is composed of about fifty members which together with one invited member of the family would make 100. Only about seventy people faced Toastmaster Blue when he called upon Rev. J. F. Price for an invocation.

The second half of the programme was equal to the first half. Toastmaster Blue's name appeared under a very appropriate quotation: "Then he will talk—good Lord! how he will talk!" If there is any way for a toastmaster to keep from talking we do not know it, and then if the honorable boss of the ceremonies is somewhat given to talk—why there you are.

Seriously though, Mr. Blue made a good toastmaster. He was "full of wise saws and modern instances" as well as turkey.

Opera House. The PRESS predicts that Mr. Holton understands his business and whatever he undertakes will succeed. Mr. Holton is an experienced hotel man, he having had charge of the Broadway Hotel at Salem, Ohio for five years and is known by most all the commercial traveling men and agents of companies throughout the country, which will be glad to hear of his success.

Mr. Holton has given the PRESS the names of some of the companies that are booked at the Opera House this season: "In a Woman's Power," "Prof. X. LaRue, Hypnotism and Mind Reading," "Was She to Blame?" "Monte Cristo," "The Girl from Chili," "Our New Minister," "The Battle of Life," "A Spring Chicken," "Hi Henry's Minstrel," "Wizard of Wall Street," "Buster Brown," "Old Arkansas," "Quincy Adams Sawyer," "Peoples' Stock Company," one week,

"Georgia Minstrel," "Missouri Girl," "My Dixie Girl," "As Told in the Hills," "The Dixie Minstrel," "Arizona," "County Chairman," "Girl From the Sunny South," "Holy City," "Barlow Wilson Minstrel."

Mr. Joe Hatfield, manager of the Donnelly & Hatfield Minstrel, on a business trip to Columbus, Ohio, stopped off at Marion to see his old friend, Manager Holton, and took dinner with him at the Hotel Crittenden and left on the next train. Donnelly & Hatfield Minstrel will show at the Opera House in Marion March 16.

There is one thing that the citizens of Marion can count on and that is the Opera House has a manager at last that knows his business in getting first class companies and it will not be long before the house will be on a paying basis. There is nothing too good for Marion.

"Uncle" Stanton Pierce.

While death, the grim reaper, is calling many of our old friends away, one by one, we notice one landmark left among us in the person of Uncle Stanton Pierce, as he was familiarly called.

On Friday last, Jan. 3, he passed his 88th birthday, making 87 years of life for him, yet, he was able on that day to eat a hearty dinner, and is still enjoying good health. He and Uncle Joe Adams were good friends, and as Uncle Stanton remarked last Friday, "Two years ago today we ate dinner together, but now he is under the ground."

Mr. Pierce is a member of the Baptist church, a staunch Mason, and he says that if he should start out to look for an enemy, he would not know where to find one.

The Kind of Graduates We Turn Out.

From the Sturgis News Democrat we clip the following notice in which two of our former employees are mentioned. We are glad to know of their success in their new positions.

"We are proud indeed to acknowledge receipt of a box of fine cigars from our valued office force as a Christmas present and as a further token of love and good will for good treatment and good wages. As gifts are seldom showered upon newspaper men, we the more appreciate this token of good cheer. Foreman, Vernon Oakley, Seldon Hughes, assistant foreman, J. A. Dart, Will Barnaby, Miss Bell Barnaby and Miss Agnes Travis composing the office force of the News Democrat are all sober, efficient, discreet, industrious and obedient men and girls, who we would not exchange for any office force in the State. We are proud of them, proud to say what few offices can, that not member of our force touches a drop of liquor, and, also proud to know we were so kindly remembered by them. May God's richest blessings be theirs all through the new year."

Tribute of Respect.

A tribute of friendship was shown Dr. Geo. W. Stone last Friday when he returned from California after a month's absence from his office in this city attending the bedside of his father. His neighbors in the PRESS building, all of whom are his friends, met him at Princeton. The party included Dr. F. W. Nunn, Thos. W. Champion, Zed A. Bennett, W. H. Clark, Walter McConnell, S. M. Jenkins. The city council and officers also showed Councilman Stone that they were his friends by a similar action. Those who composed that party were: A. S. Cannan, city marshal, John A. Moore, city attorney, J. L. Travis, city clerk and H. V. Stone, W. B. Yandell, Henry Paris, councilmen, also A. J. Duvall and several others.

Accepted Position as Night Clerk.

Chas. Holton has accepted a position as night clerk at the Hotel Crittenden. Mr. Holton enters upon his duties Jan. 15. He will also hold the management of the Marion

TEN TO TWO

In Favor of Acquittal--Powers Jury Hangs and Is Discharged.

Georgetown, Ky., Jan. 4.—The jury in the case of Caleb Powers, accused of complicity in the murder of Gov. Goebel, was discharged this morning the jurors having declared that there was no chance for them to reach an agreement.

Court was adjourned till 1:30 o'clock when the defense's motion for bail was taken up. The jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction. J. L. Price, the foreman, and J. W. Renaker, the Harrison-county juror, held out for conviction. Powers was showered with congratulations. He said he would make a statement later, adding, "I am pleased."

There came near being an acquittal this morning. Mr. Renaker made the proposition to Mr. Price to vote for acquittal. Price held out, although ill, and Renaker said he would vote with him. Price is a general merchant at Sherman, Grant county.

C. J. Marshall first voted for conviction.

The jurors were greatly wrought up, there being much ill feeling, and two, shaking Powers by the hand, actually wept. There was no money in the jury fund with which to pay the jury.

Price was the last man chosen on the jury, and had the defendant's attorneys exercised their remaining peremptory challenge on him they might have secured an acquittal. Jury Linder reported to the court that he did not think that the foreman was in condition to conduct the business of the jury, and expressed the opinion that if given more time there might be a verdict. This was before the final report of a disagreement.

When court was adjourned Price and Renaker walked over and shook hands with Attorney Franklin and Arthur Geobel. Attorney Franklin wore an expression of surprise, and it was some seconds before Mr. Geobel took his eyes off the jury. Powers jumped to his feet and the jurors that had voted for him crowded about shaking him by the hand.

Juror Jonet said: "I have always voted for the Democratic ticket. I voted for Geobel. I have a large picture of William Goebel in my home, but I could not convict Caleb Powers on this evidence."

The court room was crowded this afternoon when court convened to hear argument for bail.

Samuel M. Wilson, of Lexington, argued the motion for bail for Powers. He referred to the granting to the Hargis brothers and Ed. Callahan in the Fayette Circuit Court where the same question was thoroughly gone over and the court held that bail should be granted. Judge Morris directed the argument of the attorneys to the word evident where the law says the proof must be evident or the presumption great.

Card of Thanks.

The members of the Norma Club want to assure Mr. Jenkins of their appreciation of his kindness in furnishing the lights and music for their "Open House" on New Year's Day. For his past kindnesses, we extend thanks; for the present, we offer fair greeting; for the future, we wish him all good things.

Prot. LaRue at Opera House.

Prof. X. LaRue, the man of mystery, will be at the Marion Opera House on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 13, 14 and 15, giving one of his marvelous exhibitions of Hypnotism and Mind Reading. Prof. LaRue is without doubt one of America's leading entertainers and always pleases his audience. He can make you laugh so heartily that you will forgive your worst enemy. He frescoes melancholy faces back to happy smiles, chases the blues back to indigo and makes life worth living. Put on your laughing clothes and come out and spend an evening of social enjoyment. Read what the Covington Press of Dec. 24, 1907, says of Prof. LaRue Hypnotist:

"Prof. LaRue gave a novel and unique show, opening to a small house and closing to capacity."

Business is evidence that he pleased his audience. His work in Hypnotism and Mind Reading is praised highly and his entertainment is clean and refined. He will be here but three nights, commencing Monday, Jan. 13. Everybody turn out and see this wonderful exhibition. Prices will be in reach of everybody.

Tobacco Raisers.

I would say to the tobacco growers of Crittenden county who pooled their tobacco in the Stemming Association last year, that our efforts during the past year were certainly crowned with success, having disposed of our 1907 crop at a good price and harmony seems to be the prevailing element in our district. Therefore the Executive Committee for the Stemming District Tobacco Association now offers a chance for every person who aims to plant a crop of tobacco in said district this year to pool his crop at once.

For the convenience of those persons desiring to pool, we will appoint a suitable man in every school district to present the pooling papers to every farmer in the tobacco belt in our county.

All school districts that have not already received pooling paper for 1908 will please meet the county committeman at Marion on Monday, January 13th, 1908.

Thanking the farmers for their manly efforts, I remain,
Yours as ever,
AARON TOWERY, Committeman.

At Dycusburg.

Dr. H. B. Wolfe will be at Dycusburg in the practice of his profession dentistry, from Jan. 15th to 18th, inclusive. Every one is invited to call and have their teeth examined during his stay there.

Judge P. M. Thurmond Dead.

The sad news has reached Mrs. Elizabeth Burton, of the Mattoon vicinity, that her brother, Judge P. M. Thurmond has just died in Terrell, Texas. He was a Kentuckian, having been born in Crittenden county in 1839, where he resided until the breaking out of the Civil War when he enlisted in the Confederate cause; at its close he represented Caldwell and Lyon counties in the Kentucky Legislature and soon became a politician of much note. He went from here to Arizona where he served as county judge, district attorney and senator in that state.

He finally located in Texas and had an extensive practice as a lawyer in different sections of the state, he was at one time a partner of Judge Goodwin, of Brownwood.

He was a man of means and influence and was never married. His funeral which was conducted at Terrell, by Rev. C. B. Welborn of the Presbyterian church, was attended by representatives of the Masonic Fraternity and Daughters of the Confederacy.

Mrs. Burton has the sincere sympathy of her many friends at this place.

Card of Thanks.

To those who were so kind to my brother, W. L. Bennett in his late illness I desire to extend my sincere thanks.

HENRY BENNETT.

At New Bethel Cemetery.

The remains of Caleb Stone accompanied by his son, Dr. George W. Stone, of this city, reached Fredonia (as previously foreshadowed in the RECORD-PRESS) from Pomona, Cal. last Friday afternoon. The funeral conducted by Eld. M. E. Miller and the interment took place at New Bethel church in Lyon county where for so many years the deceased was a communicant. Notwithstanding the inclement weather many of his old friends and relatives were there to pay the last tribute of respect to a man who had always held the esteem and love of all with whom he came in contact. The remains were laid to rest by loving hands beside those of his wife and daughter, both of whom had crossed the dark river many years before.

A Remedy for Neuralgia or Pain in the Nerves.

For neuralgia and sciatica Sloan's Liniment has no equal. It has a powerful sedative effect on the nerves—penetrates without rubbing and gives immediate relief from pain—quickens the circulation of the blood and gives a pleasant sensation of comfort and warmth.

"For three years I suffered with neuralgia in the head and jaws," writes J. P. Hubbard, of Marietta, S. C., "and had almost decided to have three of my teeth pulled, when a friend recommended me to buy a twenty-five-cent bottle of Sloan's Liniment. I did so and experienced immediate relief, and I kept on using it until the neuralgia was entirely cured. I shall never be without a bottle of Sloan's Liniment in my house again. I use it also for insect bites and sore throat, and I can cheerfully recommend it to any one who suffers from any of the ills which I have mentioned."

Stockholders Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of Marion Zinc Company will be held at the office of the company, 307 First National Bank Building, Cheyenne, Wyoming, at 2:30 P. M. February 4, A. D. 1908, for the purpose of electing a board of trustees and transacting such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

M. L. POLHAMUS, Secretary.

ALL MET THE SAME END

Any One Who Has Been There Will Realize Truth of Hotel Man's Observation.

L. V. Harkness, the Standard Oil magnate of New York, was complimented at a recent banquet upon the tremendous earnings of his company.

"But at this season," said Mr. Harkness, "the earnings of the seaside hotel man seem to me much more impressive. With their hotels closed out till next June, our seaside hotel men are starting, with maids and valets and couriers and enormous letters of credit, for the Riviera and Sicily and Egypt—traveling veritably like princes."

"It all reminds me of a rich hotel man I once met at Atlantic City.

"Splendid surf you have here," said I.

He smiled complacently.

"Yes," he answered, "like everybody else here, the waves reach our town in great style, but they all go away broke."

NEW PENNSYLVANIA INDUSTRY.

Paul Firman has bought a 110-acre tract on which is the largest grove of wild persimmon trees in these mountains. He is now fencing in the tract as a protection for the possum, with which he will stock it. He says he will own the only possum farm in the world.

The opossum does not reach the height of his glory until persimmons are ripe and the layers of white fat take on the spicy flavor of the fruit. Mr. Firman intends to develop the best variety of persimmon and the finest breed of opossum, and by next fall he expects to sell several hundred animals at fancy prices. One of the sources of revenue from the farm will be the sale of skins to fur dealers. This fur is rapidly becoming popular.—Caledonia Letter to Philadelphia Record.

HER INTENTIONS WERE GOOD.

Late one evening Mrs. Aldercott gave a tramp an old hat of her husband's, feeling glad that she could help a needy one with something. The next morning her husband found the hat on the front steps with a note, written in a rude hand, pinned to it. The note read:

"Ef the hat had ben as good as yure intenshuns I'd have kept it."

Grinning all over, Mr. Aldercott carried note and hat in to his wife, with the comment:

"I suppose this is like bread cast upon the waters," etc.

She is still looking for the vagrant.

POPULAR NAMES FOR GIRLS.

In the eighteenth century girls were christened Sophia and Caroline; in the early nineteenth, Emma and Jane; little later, Laura and Clara; then came a crop of Dorotheas and Marjories, who are now all calling their own babies (in a reaction against the "quaint") Elizabeth. The names of men suffer no such emphatic fashions, and yet it is a pleasure to note that there are certainly no more young men called Alf and Gus as were the young men who walked with the crinoline in the days of Leech. Good is the sound of John, through all changes.

THE GIRLS DID IT.

In France, a few weeks ago, at a private school where 30 young girls were being boarded and educated, the meals became so poor that the girls protested. This did no good, and one evening they made a raid on the pantry and captured everything eatable. When the mistress went to punish the leader she was set upon by all, her hair pulled out, her clothing torn and her face scratched, and she had to finally call in the police to quell the riot. If anybody thinks a girl hasn't an appetite as well as as other folks, they will find they have made a big mistake.

NEW DROWNING THEORY.

An Illinois physician has revived the idea of resuscitating drowned people by first immersing them in a hot bath for twenty minutes or longer and then resorting to the old and ordinary methods of restoration. He says the lungs of a drowned person do not contain water, a spasm of the larynx occurring which prevents the entrance of water for a period of nine days. Drowning, so-called, is merely suspended animation, and not death. By this process life may be saved if the body has not been submerged more than six hours.

BIBLE CLASS

REV. J. F. PRICE, EDITOR

LESSON II.

GOSPEL OF JOHN.

Preliminary.

1. The style of this Gospel. It is colloquial. Much of it occurs in conversations. He talks like an old man telling a story, "he said," "they said," etc. Jn. IV. 5, 7, 6-10, 11, 13, 15-16, 19, 21. IX. 1-29, 30, 35, 43-2:1, 13, 5:1-6:4 His style is clear and simple. The most sublime expressions are couched in the simplest phrases. He gives us the various Passovers of Christ's ministry. This enables us to construct the order of events, and the length of time of Christ's ministry, which we could not do without the data furnished by John.

2. The Aspect of Christ which John presents.

Matthew presents him as the Messiah; Mark, as the Son of God; Luke, as the Son of Man; John, as the God-man. He unites all the other conceptions of Christ and sublimes them. He presents him as the eternal Word, existing from the beginning, yet made flesh and bone on the earth. He speaks of Christ as dwelling in heaven, yet coming to the earth. Jn. 3:13, 17, 19, 6:38, 51.

If we should compare the four gospel writers to the temple, we should say that Matthew would represent the court of Israel, Mark the court of the priests, Luke the court of the Gentiles, and John the Holy of Holies.

TOPICS AND SEARCH QUESTIONS.

1. Mention the different feasts that Jesus attended as recorded in John.

2. Make a list of Jesus' declarations of his divinity.

3. Divide the discourses into "Conversations with Individuals," "Private Discourses to the Disciples," and "Discussions with an Audience."

4. Make a list of the miracles in John.

5. What are miracles called in John and what are they called in the other Gospels?

6. Write after each of the miracles recorded in John what it signifies in regard to Jesus.

7. Record the steps in the argument in the first four chapters that Christ is greater than John, (Acts 19:1-7)

8. What are the different titles given to Christ in this book?

9. Underline the word "believe" in this book with black ink and the word "love" with red ink. Notice in the first twelve chapters "believe" occurs twelve times as often as "love," in chapters 13-21 "love" occurs three times as often as "believe." Believes occurs about 100 times.

10. Prominent words: life, light, love, glory.

A Tribute to Brother Adams.

The news has just reached me over the telephone this morning (Jan. 1, 1908), of the death of Bro. Adams, and truly a great man in Israel hath fallen.

I regarded him as the best saint in Marion, and my association with him always strengthened my faith in the God Jehovah. His life was sublimely simple, and his faith unfaltering. I hold the sweetest memories of this saint's friendship. Often we have talked of God's cause and marvelous grace, and Bro. Adams' prayers shall never lose their impression upon my life.

But he has gone from time, work, care and our association, to be with Jesus. He entered the portals of eternity this morning, as the rest of us entered the New Year. He departed to be with Christ which is far better.

May the life of this noble saint of God inspire us all to live closer to Christ.

"Army of the living God,
To his command we bow;
Part of his host have crossed the flood,
And part are crossing now."

To those of his loved ones left behind, I would say, that you should "grieve not, as those who have no hope." May you thank God for the many years of our brother's life, and his deep devotion to the Master. May the presence of the same Lord he loved and served be your strength in this hour of separation, and in the beautiful words of Mrs. Browning I would say:

"Go live rightly, we must turn our faces forward and not look backward morbidly for the footprints in the dust of those beloved ones who traveled with us but yesterday. They, themselves, are not behind, but before, and we carry with us our tenderness living and undiminished toward them, to be completed when the round of this life is completed for us also.

Our brother was a working man and his energetic life has left its impress upon us all.

"The noblest men that live on earth
Are men whose hands are brown with toil;

The workingmen, whate'er their task.

They wear upon their honest brows

The royal stamp and seal of God;

And worthier are their drops of sweat

Than diamonds in a coronet.

God bless them! for their toiling hands

Have wrought the glory of all lands."

He is not dead, but only fallen asleep in Jesus.

The grave can claim no part,

Save that on which faileth our sad tears;

Clay cannot cover all those hopes and fears.

Which swell each throbbing heart.

Would God a palace rear

For a frail being with no nobler life

Than that which closes with the dying strife,

A life that endeth here?

Ah, no! the tenant must

More glorious than its glorious mansion be;

Whose domes and columns soon, alas!

we see,

All crumbling into dust.

Dust may to dust return,

Ashes to kindred ashes fall again;

But thought dies not; of all the minds bright train

None findeth a funeral urn.

I had the pleasure of grasping Bro. Adams' hand upon my recent visit to Marion. It was one of the warm, fine and cordial kind. He made me feel that he was a soldier girded with strength. This servant of Christ was always scattering roses in my pathway, and putting new courage and strength into me by his cheery and tender acts. He is of blessed memory to me and I shall think of him as one of the best Christian men I have ever known. I feel that the Requiem ought to be sung over this departed saint.

Spirit! thy labor is o'er!

Thy term of probation is run,
Thy steps are now bound for the un-trodden shore,

And the race of immortals begun.

Spirit! look not on the strife,

Or the pleasures of earth with regret—

Pause not on the threshold of limitless life,

To mourn for the thing that is set.

Spirit! no fetters can bind,

No wicked have power to molest;

There the weary, like thee—the wretched shall find

A heaven, a mansion of rest.

Spirit! how bright is the road

For which thou art now on the wing

Thy home it will be with thy Savior and God,

Their loud hallelujah to sing.

May all who stand around the grave and commit the body of our beloved friend and brother to the earth, know that they have laid to rest one of your best citizens, purest Christians, honest toilers, faithful fellow pilgrims and puritan soldiers.

Servant of God, well done!

Rest from thy loved employ,

The battle fought, the victory won,

Enter thy Master's joy.

In loving memory,

T. A. CONWAY.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough, take a simple cold remedy—you should cough less, sooth, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take his patent medicine, which contains Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture. Good Very good!! However, for overreaching, Dr. Shoop should take on his Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on his Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must be law to put on the label. And it's not only safe, but is remarkable for its power to cure even the most terrible cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop packing with others and note the difference. The poison in them you can always be on the safe side by demanding

VALUE OF RIGHT BREATHING.

Health Comes From Knowing How and What to Breathe.

Dust laden with the germs of consumption or other disease inhaled by all who use the streets, but disease is not developed unless the germs find conditions suitable for their lodgment and growth.

With people having catarrh their is an ideal culture medium for these germs, as the irritated membrane and weakened tissues is a hot-bed where germs must thrive and multiply until they are numerous and active.

If you have catarrh, you should use the easiest, simplest and quickest cure, the direct method of Hoymei, whose wonderful medicated air is taken in with the air you breathe, directly following and destroying all germs that have been inhaled, repairing any damage they may have worked and so healing and vitalizing the tissues as to render catarrh and germ infection no longer possible.

The unusual way in which Hoymei is sold should dispel all doubt as to its curative properties, for Haynes & Taylor offer to refund the price to anyone whom it fails to benefit. You do not risk a cent in testing the healing virtues of this breath of life, for with every $1.00 outfit Haynes & Taylor give a guarantee to relieve catarrh or money refunded.

DON'T WAIT

Take Advantage of a Kentucky Citizen's Experience Before It's Too Late.

When the back begins to ache, Don't wait until backache becomes chronic;

Till serious kidney troubles develop;

Till urinary troubles destroy night's rest.

Mrs. L. B. Taylor, of 810 East Jefferson St., Louisville, Ky., says: "Several years ago I contracted a cold which settled in my kidneys. I suffered a great deal from pains across my back and loins and was also much annoyed by the too frequent action of the kidney secretions, especially at night. I steadily grew worse, began to be annoyed by dizziness and a feeling of languor and depression. I procured Dean's Kidney Pills and felt relief from the first. I continued the treatment and was soon cured. I gave a statement to this effect in 1900 and am glad to confirm same at this time for the cure has proven to be a permanent one."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

DIDN'T WANT HER TO KNOW

Apt Illustration of the Lack of Confidence Which Too Often Exists in the World.

John D. Crimmins, one of the builders of New York's $13,000,000 Plaza hotel, said recently at a dinner:

"The public confidence in capital was great at the time this magnificent hotel was projected. Now, with the public confidence in capital so weak, it would be impossible to put such a project through again."

"For capital," said Mr. Crimmins, "though apparently so superior and strong, really depends on public confidence. Without public confidence it lies idle and useless. Hence, in its heart, capital respects the public; in fact, it is like the man who lay ill with a nervous disorder.

"If you have catarrh, you should use the easiest, simplest and quickest cure, the direct method of Hoymei, whose wonderful medicated air is taken in with the air you breathe, directly following and destroying all germs that have been inhaled, repairing any damage they may have worked and so healing and vitalizing the tissues as to render catarrh and germ infection no longer possible."

"Just tell me, will you," he said, "how much whisky you have been averaging daily?"

"The sick man cast a timid look at the door and whispered:

"Say, doc, if you don't mind, just go outside and see if my old woman is listening at the keyhole, will you?"

MISUSE OF POSTAL CARDS.

"If people addicted to the postal card habit," said the society woman, "only realized the annoyance they impose on their friends there would be a noteworthy increase in Uncle Sam's revenues by the substitution of letters for the messages that all the world may read. I'm not speaking of the sending of souvenir postal cards, but of the use of postals for the purpose of personal correspondence. A postal to my mind bespeaks laziness or thoughtlessness. To make an appointment or to indicate a plan by means of a postal card is to show a lack of reserve which I think should be strongly disconcerted. Certainly it implies no great degree of appreciation of the feelings of the recipient."

HAD IT DOWN FINE.

"How old are you, sonny?"
"One winter, eight cold summers and a late spring."—Chicago Journal.

SHE LIKED BEING GUY-ED.

A young man and woman stopped in front of Wallack's theater and looked at a lithograph advertising "The Right of Way," says the New York Times. The picture represents Theodore Roberts and Guy Standing, one on his knees to the other, who is in a heroic, upright position.

"Aren't they handsome?" exclaimed the young woman.

"Passably," the escort assented.

"Well, I'd like to know which is which."

"That is probably Guy standing."

She called him a hopeless case, or a cut-up, or something of that nature, but it was easy to see that she thought he was real cute.

DANGER OF KISSING.

Medical authorities have come to the conclusion that a disease which has long puzzled them is due to the prevalence of the "kissing habit." The fact was mentioned by Dr. W. Rushton in a lecture delivered under the auspices of the National Health Society of England. The jaw is at first affected by the disease known to scientists as "Pyorrhoea alveolaris"—a loosening of the teeth follows, and finally, although they may be perfectly sound, they fall out one by one. A victim is not, it appears, likely to recognize the malady in its incipient stages, and outwardly there is no sign to betray its presence.

ONE THING HE RECALLED.

Mrs. Benham—Do you remember when you proposed to me?

Benham—Yes; I remember you exceeded the speed limit in saying "Yes."

American People Developing a National Conscience

By DR. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER,
President Columbia University.

The American people are awakening to a national consciousness in which public and business morals are placed on the same basis as those of the individual.

Look at the advance Americans have made in that direction; see how the attitude of the people toward their public men and business ethics has changed. When this country was having its great boom, from 1830 to say, 1873, there was such a rapid growth of natural resources, so many opportunities for making fortunes quickly, and so many chances for overreaching and cupidity that less thought was given to the ethical side of public and business life. It became a habit to say: "Oh! it's business"—something quite apart from the rules of private ethics.

So it is with some of the men whose business methods are now being held up to public criticism. They believe that they came into their fortunes by fair means. They say: "We did in our day what was the custom then in business life. We may have played the game shrewdly, but all our associates did the same. We were like other men."

For this reason people of to-day may not give sufficient weight to the fact that all this is changed. These men were honest so far as that code went. But we have set up a different and a higher code. The business tactics that were permitted then are looked upon as unethical to-day. We have advanced, and, advancing, have changed our attitude toward life.

This fact, true of business, is even more applicable to the personal habits and morals of public men. Their weaknesses, irregularities, and sometimes a positive immorality were condoned in the early history of the country. Such excuses would not be permitted for an instant to-day.

Scandals even reached so high in the scale of official life that one of them led to an impeachment of a member of the cabinet.

Can you imagine Secretary Taft, for example, on trial for selling a postiership?

Can you imagine President Roosevelt with the personal habits of some of the earlier statesmen? No, such men would be intolerable in public life to-day. Ours are higher standards; we have a more exacting code of public ethics.

With the augmented life and knowledge, the enlargement of world-consciousness, the closer neighborhood not only of the present, but of all the past that has made us, we would suppose that something like a world citizenship would characterize our own time, we would be disposed to argue that the vast gains of modern life would make life itself very much larger and richer, that the modern citizen would shed much of the militant insular citizenship of the past, and would stand for something like a universal citizenship.

And yet the peculiarity of our modern day is that the great gains and enrichments of life have not wrought a correspondingly larger man or larger citizenship.

Our modern citizenship is neither broad nor generous nor enlightened in any measure proportionate to the general enlightenment and enrichment of the world we live in. Indeed, a marked phase and quality of our present-day life is rather the tendency to emphasize race separation and race hatred. The Hague conference, just concluding, has revealed this. The modern principle of the augmentation of naval and military armaments reveals this. There are some six nations of the modern world, and these the most advanced, who keep the closest and most jealous eye each on the other, and if one of these powers lays down a battleship, the others immediately proceed to lay down a bigger one. Germany was never so insular, so nationally insular. Armed to the teeth, she has her scouts abroad and her war machines trained to the finest readiness. Germany is German to the core and sleeps, if she sleeps at all, in her armor. And this is true of France, of Russia, and in a measure also of England, notwithstanding her wide empire of colonies. The United States has had a peculiar training in broad citizenship, and yet we have coined in very recent times that narrowest of all national cries, "My country! Right or wrong, my country!" The trade policies of the world to-day indicate the same narrowing and limiting of the content of modern citizenship. The fear of our own immediate time, expressed in the alarming phrase, "The yellow peril," is a revelation of this same thing.

The greatest peril of the modern world is in a hardened and hardened nationalism, in that race hatred, which reveals itself in so many bitter and threatening ways, in the life, the trade, the politics, and the religion even of this modern life. Of all nations the United States is freest and least hampered, either by tradition or geographical crowding, to show this world of our own time a more excellent way. The best citizenship is found not in a hardened militant nationalism, but in the recognition that God's world is a very big world and that there is room and liberty and safety for every man.

Life is more than happiness. It is not to be considered as having value save as it may gird us better for our tasks and give us courage and inspiration in its activities. Living along the line of least resistance and yielding to inclination is a prostitution of life. Life is not an acquiescence, floating with the stream, going with the current. It is in aggressively facing the world and its forces that progress is made.

The best of life is what has been won, in the sense of enduring, or wrestling, or suffering, or sacrificing for a principle, and, in a higher sense, for the truth and love of Christ. The conquest of sin in us, the subjection of the "old man," the achievement of control over anger, impatience, fretting, and other forms of wickedness, mark the passage of the gate.

But it is hard work, and may require a long time.

After all, there is only one way of victory over evil, and that is by an overcoming good. To oppose evil with evil is pandemonium perpetual. Evil has never yielded to evil in the sense of owning defeat. But it can be overcome.

by experience in business since the organization of banks that such a reserve is amply sufficient to meet all the ordinary requirements of business. But an examination of the statements of our banks will show that each of them has a much greater reserve than that required by law to be kept.

For instance—Marion Bank, which is the oldest bank in the county shows that it has on deposit $177,415.52 Under the law the legal reserve for this amount of deposits would only be $26,612.32 one third of which $8,870.77 should be kept in cash, but this bank has a reserve of $87,557.31 in other banks and in cash, more than three times as much as it is required by law to keep, of which $16,680.51 is in cash on hand in the vault, being more than two times as much cash as it is required to keep. While to secure its $177,415.52 of deposits it has in notes, property and cash on hand and in approved banks of deposit $219,982.41 and in addition to this its stockholders are bound for $20,000.00 making in all $239,982.41 of assets to secure its depositors against loss.

The Kentucky statutes require every bank to make a report of its condition to the Secretary of State once in every three months, and often if required, at such times as the secretary may prescribe; these reports must be signed and sworn to by the president, vice president or cashier and signed by at least three directors, and each alternate report is required to be published in some newspaper in the county having the largest bona fide circulation therin.

The Secretary of State has called upon the various banks to make and publish reports of their condition at the close of business, December 31, 1907, and in compliance with the law the various banks doing business in this county have their reports published in this issue of our paper.

These reports show such an excellent condition of our banks that we can not refrain from commenting upon it.

It has been the impression upon the part of some, that because the banks have temporarily limited currency payments of checks, that fact should be taken as an evidence that the banks were not in good condition.

If any one will take the trouble to examine these reports, he will readily see that our banks in Crittenden county are managed as safely and conservatively as any in the country and any one having deposits in any one of our banks is amply protected against loss. Section 544 of Kentucky Statutes provides that each bank shall keep on hand, at all times, at least fifteen per cent of its deposits, and in cities with a population of over fifty thousand at least twenty-five per cent of its total deposits, one third of which reserve shall be in money and the balance may be in funds, payable on demand, deposited in other banks.

This provision is similar to the requirement under the National Bank law, and it has been demonstrated cash and deposits in other banks.

We have taken the liberty of referring to our banks in this article because of the money stringency throughout the country, our banks, as many others, were compelled to limit currency payments to some extent, and we feel that our readers ought to know the real condition of our banks and ought to see from these statements that there is no cause for any alarm on the part of their depositors, but on the other hand the patrons of our banks should congratulate themselves that they have in this county, banks so soundly and conservatively managed that in times of stress like the present, they have on hand such a strong reserve and are in such excellent condition, that their depositors can rest assured their interests are well secured.

RIGID INSPECTION

Of Cows Advocated by State Veterinarian Eisenman.

Dr. Frank T. Eisenman, State Veterinarian, to-day transmitted to Dr. J. N. McCormack, of Bowling Green, his annual report of work accomplished under his supervision. In this, he takes up at length the matters which have come under his observation, and in particular lays stress upon the dangers of tuberculosis infection from diseased dairy cattle.

Dr. Eisenman is strongly in favor of the proposed bill to indemnify owners of herds for cattle killed because of having tuberculosis, and of rigid State inspection, in order to bring the dairy herds up to the highest degree of health. This bill is to be introduced into the coming session of the Kentucky Legislature, and if passed will be the greatest victory for good health achieved in a decade, according to its sponsors.

Facts are what Dr. Eisenman's report deals with. He names the herds which have been visited, and gives figures which show a startling prevalence of bovine tuberculosis. He takes up the question of transmission of bovine tuberculosis to man, and shows that the disease thereby becomes more virulent in form. An excerpt of the report is given below.

The Government of the civilized world, realizing that every seventh person dies from tuberculosis, have appropriated large sums of money to be used by commissions, which are composed of the most scientific men of the day, whose duties are to investigate the source of infection, the most effective treatment and the surest method of prevention.

The study of tuberculosis not only occupies the attention of the scientific world, but has awakened the interest of the public, whose intelligent and vigorous co-operation is absolutely necessary if this dread disease is to be stayed in its progress and controlled.

In this city a large sum has been subscribed for the erection and maintenance of a sanatorium, where tubercular patients can be properly treated. There are also societies formed for the prevention of the disease, where every rule and regulation that science can prescribe is discussed, matters of outdoor treatment, foods best to build up the patient, the source of infection from one human to another—all these are carefully gone over, but the most common and most dangerous and absolutely the most fatal form of this disease is rarely touched on, that of bovine infection. It has been proven that when human beings contract tuberculosis from the bovine source the disease runs a more rapid course, and when the bacilli eliminated by the patient are inoculated into animals these bacilli produce more extensive lesions, and the bacilli taken from these animals in turn show more virulence than the bacilli taken from animals inoculated from patients infected from the human source.

It is appalling the number of deaths that can be traced directly to bovine infection. One-half of the children die under five years, a great many of these infants die under one year, when all symptoms point to tubercular bowel lesions.

Dr. Burkhardt found ninety-one per cent. in investigating 1,452 human cadavers which showed tubercular lesions. Dr. Nagell states out of 500 human cadavers examined, ninety-six per cent. were found to be tuberculous.

The purity of the milk supply of a city is as important as the purity of its air and water.

The cow easily contracts tuberculosis. For a few years the disease may not be apparent, and a seemingly healthy cow, unless tested with tuberculin and reacts, may remain unsuspected and be a dangerous source of infection to both human beings and other animals.

One of the first indications of tuberculosis in a cow is found in the feces, particles of which frequently fall into the milk, thereby contaminating the whole supply. In advanced cases of the disease the udder becomes infected and directly infects the milk. The milk is taken systematically from door to door every day, thereby infecting many persons who succumb to the disease.

Tuberculosis is not the only disease scattered by dirty and infected milk, but epidemics of typhoid, diphtheria, scarlet fever, etc., can be traced directly to contaminated dairy products.

The only sure way of preventing tuberculosis from being spread from the bovine source is to provide adequate laws forcing dairymen to have their herds tested with tuberculin at stated times by competent and conscientious veterinarians. This test and this alone, is the only positive means to supply the consumer with pure and wholesome milk and other dairy products.

It is almost assured that 30 per cent. of cows supplying milk to most cities will react to the tuberculin test, and that 95 per cent. are partly covered by manure, some small portions of which fall into the pail.

Add to these facts that one cow infected with tuberculosis, probably to such a slight degree that her condition would not be suspected without the aid of tuberculin, passing 37,800,000 virulent tubercle bacilli in her bowel discharges in one day, as has been accurately determined by Superintendent Schroeder, of the United States Experiment Station, and that butter made from this cow's milk harbors tubercle bacilli found to still retain their virulence for forty-nine days.

Is it not time that the public should become alarmed and exert its best efforts to get rid of the unsuspected cow, the most powerful death-dealing machine on earth, and consequently the greatest menace to mankind?

When the dairyman finds that the public demands pure dairy products, and will pay him what is necessary so as to allow him to furnish good milk, then it will be to his profit to meet the popular demand.—Louisville Times.

STORIES TOLD OF GEORGE III.

Poorly Educated English Monarch Had Girewiness and Also a Sense of Humor.

George III. was one of the most poorly educated of England's kings, but he was capable, at times, to a surprising degree, of uttering shrewd and humorous remarks. In the "Life of George the Third," written by Mr. Lewis Melville under the title, "Farmer George," are to be found not a few of these royal sayings. When Lord Baron Macdonald, an inveterate snuff user, and Mr. Baron Graham, a great talker, were sitting in Westminster Court—"The court of the exchequer," remarked the king, "has a snuffbox at one end and a chatterbox at the other." King George sometimes endeavored to find amusement in poking about Windsor, asking strange questions of all whom he chanced to meet in his rambles. "Well, my lad, what do you want? What do they pay you?" he asked of the stable lad. "I help in the stables," the youngster grumbled, "but I get nothing but my victuals and clothes." "Be content," said the monarch, philosophically, "I have no more than that."

DECAYING SEDAN.

Sedan looks all over like that unswept and duty floor in the French theater. The streets consist either of narrow and rather mean-looking little shops, or of great, sombre, square, faded-yellow buildings. It was Sunday when I arrived there, and that perhaps lent an additional air of gloom to the town. Anyhow, I never saw decay so distinctly marked on the exterior of a town anywhere else outside Ireland. I was wrong in thinking, as I did at first, that all this was due to the horrors and loss of the war; as a matter of fact, the town has gone down owing to purely commercial reasons. It was once the seat of a great cloth industry, but time and fashions change, and the industry went down. Nowadays, I was told by a man in Sedan, the townspeople are adapting themselves to new conditions, with the result that trade is reviving.—T. P. O'Connor in the London P. T. O.

GOOD IN EVERYTHING.

Samuel Gompers, while attending the convention of the National Civic Federation in Chicago, got in an argument with a banker.

At the end of one of the banker's assertions Mr. Gompers retorted gaily:

"It is possible to say a good word for almost any state of things, isn't it? I remember once, in a very untidy chophouse in Syracuse, hearing a guest exclaim, as he took up a soiled bill of fare:

"By jove, what an excellent idea—samples of the various dishes glued to the menu!"

OF HUMBLE ORIGIN.

The visitor was admiring the little boy's round linen collar, which was beautifully embroidered.

"Yes," replied his mother; "they are pretty. I made him several from some plate doilies I didn't need. And I made myself some lovely cuffs by cutting square drawn-work doilies in half. Of course, you saw my hat made from a centerpiece. There's nothing like going to the linen closet for your fancy clothes."

HEIGHT OF LURICROUSNESS.

"Yes," said Mrs. Oatcake, "John was such a queer boy. He had a mania for putting silly names together."

"Indeed!" replied the visitor. "And is he still working on the farm?"

"Well I should say not! John was called to New York at a big salary to select the names of them, that big shows that come out of that town."

A FOOLISH QUESTION.

"And how long did you live in South Dakota, Mrs. Thirsdon?"

"How long? Good gracious, you wouldn't expect me to live there an hour longer than was necessary to comply with the law, would you?"

—Chicago Record-Herald.

"Do you give gas?" asked the man with the swollen jaw.

"We have that reputation," stiffly replied the barber, whose shop had been mistaken for a dentist's office.

K. K. Kevil, engineer for the Nevada-California Power company, has completed the survey for the branch line to the Gold Bar and Homestake mines, and he thinks it will be ready to go into commission in about two weeks. The line follows the main line for the substation for a part of the distance. About half of the pole holes have already been, and the work is to be completed just as soon as possible. When it is, the Gold
Bar mill will begin operation.

Mr. Kevil says the company contemplates extensive additions and improvements in the spring. A second line will probably be run from Bishop to Goldfield and another plant built to give 10,000 additional horsepower, or more than double the present capacity.

A slight accident happened on the line across White mountain early Tuesday morning, causing the shut-for several hours. A heavy snow storm caused a break in the wires.

WILLING TO BE A MODEL.

Seven-year-old Willie was the bane of his teacher's life. He was actively interested in nearly all the mischief that went on in the class, and was the originator of a great deal of it. One morning he seemed to have turned over a new leaf. For fully an hour he was a model of good behavior. Finally the teacher, thinking a little encouragement would help him to continue in the straight and narrow path, said to the boy:

"Willie, you are being a very good boy to-day."

The young hopeful beamed with pleasure, and the future looked bright to the teacher. Presently Willie raised his hand.

"What is it, Willie?"

"Teacher, I wish all the boys was like me."

BUSINESS—NOT PLEASURE.

Even in classic Boston they have now that gastronomic disaster known as the business lunch, says the Circle. The other day Freddy Parent and Ralph Glaze happened to be in South Boston, and they stopped in one of those restaurants where they advertised the serving of these business lunches.

When the meal was served to the two ball players, and when they had at last finished, Parent turned to Glaze and said:

"I wonder why they call it a business lunch?"

"I suppose," replied the pitcher, with a bored expression on his face, "that it's because it's anything but a pleasure to eat one of them."

ONE ON THE DOMINIE.

There is a Pennsylvania divine who is not averse to telling a good story at his own expense.

Once, in addressing a mission meeting in Philadelphia which was attended mainly by sailors, the good man had sought to adapt his remarks to his hearers by using nautical similes; and in so doing he ventured somewhat beyond his depth.

"And now what shall we do? What shall we do?"

"Nothing doin', cap'n!" sang out one of the sailors. "Ye're in bad! Ye're goin' in stern foremost!"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

SUPERIOR KNOWLEDGE.

Teacher—Johnny, what causes the water of the sea to be salty?

Johnny—The salt that's in it.

Teacher—Next, Waldo, what causes the water of the sea to be salty?

Waldo—The salt quality of sea water, ma'am, is due to the admixture of a sufficient quantity of chloride of sodium to impart to the aqueous fluid with which it commingles a saline flavor which is readily recognized by the organs of taste.

Teacher—Correct. Go up head, Waldo.

RESEMBLANCE.

At the close of her usual dinner-time argument, Mr. Johnson looked at his wife admiringly. "My dear," he said, "your mind resembles the wireless telegraph apparatus which they use in the navy."

"Yes?" she asked, flattered. "You mean because it catches subtle flashes from the surrounding ether?"

"No, my dear. Because it is often completely at sea."—Youth's Companion.

MOVE ABOUT A LITTLE

Constant Stay-at-Home Misses All of the Glories of This Wonderful World.

There is something impressive in the story of a lifetime of persistent toil. But there is another point of view which deserves respect. The gadabout may be a useless member of society, but the stay-at-home is likely to be a narrow one. We find ourselves on this little planet, with its oceans and mountains and mighty rivers and wide prairies. We know not whence we came, nor if we shall ever pass this way again. Surely we may do our task better in our own appointed place if we look about the world, feed our minds with the glories of nature and discover how men and women before us have lived their lives and embodied their aspirations in the great arts of building and painting and sculpture. The wheat field and the ledger and the cooking stove are facts of human life; but so are the Cologne Cathedral, the Sistine Madonna, the Canadian Rockies and the Valley of the Yellowstone.—Youth's Companion.

MARION, KY.

DYCEBURG.

A happy New Year to all. Rev. Miller filled his regular appointment at this place Sunday.

Mrs. Josephine Jones died at her home near this place Dec. 30th 1907. For many years before her death her health had been failing. She was especially kind and attentive to the sick. Surely it may be said of her, "she hath done what she could." Many friends extend deepest sympathy to the bereaved husband and daughters.

Again the angel of death has visited our village. W. L. Bennett passed away January the 3rd 1908. Mr. Bennett was a man of good business qualities and was said to have been very generous and kind hearted. The community is in sympathy with the sorrowing family.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob't Wells, of Livingston county, attended the funeral of W. L. Bennett, Saturday.
